

Please don't soften the Telephone Privacy Law in Indiana. This law is working beautifully. Before the law came into existence, I was receiving two to three calls from solicitors a night, even on Sundays. Many of them came at dinner time. I essentially was hanging-up on all of them, but it still greatly disturbed my evening at home. Since the law, I have only received 2 or three calls. I am more than happy to review any information that is sent to me in the mail, on my own timetable, but I absolutely do not want to go back to receiving all these unsolicited calls. You will have millions of very angry taxpayers in Indiana, if this law is softened in any way. Thanks for reading and considering my opinion in this matter.
